WHY NOT ARREST AH HOO, DEMANDS LORRIN ANDREWS

Offers to Assist in Prosecution of Alleged Gambler; Ah Yet Case to Be Test

"If the city and county attorney's office really wants to arrest all gamblers, why don't they arrest Ah Hoo? If they do, I'll assist in the prosecution, and I don't think there will be any trouble in securing a conviction."

This was one of the remarks made by Attorney Lorrin Andrews today in the police court during the trial of Ah Yet, charged with allowing gambling in a building at 16 Hotel street, where 14 men were arrested February 15. Andrews insisted in his talk that Ah Hoo, said to run a notorious gambling resort, was not molested by the police.

Ah Yet was fined $75 and costs after a long verbal battle between Andrews and Prosecuting Attorneys Carden and Chillingworth. The case was appealed.

This is the first case brought against the owner of a building, under advice of Judge J. M. Monsarrat, who recently said that was the proper way to stop gambling.

In the case today the extreme difficulty of proving a charge such as this was made plain by the evidence and by Andrews' clever argument. The attorney for the defendant contended that his client was not proved guilty and that the prosecution should show he knew gambling was in progress and was "owner and lessee" of the building. He claimed this was not shown.

In the testimony it was brought out that the Hotel street building in which the game was found was owned by a Honolulu man, rented to a partner, ship, which may be either the Fook Wo Tong Company or the Fook Chin Wo Company, and that both of these firms used the building. Ah Yet was only an employee.

No one seemed to know who were partners in the companies, or which was the proper lessee. Speaking of the Fook Wo Tong Company, one witness said one member was in China, one at Walluku, one in California, and he did not know where the others were or what their names were.

It was apparent that if technicalities are dwelt on the law regarding owners of buildings cannot be enforced. Judge Monsarrat fined Ah Yet after carefully considering the facts and made no comment on the testimony.

In the circuit court the case will be made a test and on the final decision depends the attitude the city and county attorney's office will take regarding owners or lessees of buildings in which gamblers are arrested.

NO RAIN COMING TO SPOIL FINAL CARNIVAL NIGHT

His predictions having come out exactly right, the weather man now says fine weather will be the rule tomorrow night, so far as his instruments can prophesy.

Meteorologist A. M. Hamrick of the United States weather bureau's local office, took a look at his barometer today, found it standing at 29.97, only .05 lower than yesterday morning, and opined the weather tomorrow will be excellent.

His assistant, William W. Wyatt, figured up the relative humidity, found it to be only 56 per cent, with the wind only 8 miles an hour, from the east, and the temperature 72 at 8 this morning. He also thinks the Carnival will wind up in a blaze of glory, with no dampness to mar its final splendid hours.

The public debt of the United States on January 1, 1916, was $1,102,268,003, an increase of $7,178,810 during the month of December.

The Windsor Hotel at Oneonta, N. Y., was partly destroyed by a fire which caused $5000 damage. All the guests escaped safely.

Maintaining the rate of increase shown during the last 40 years, Russia's population at the end of the present century will number 600,000,000.

James Scott, a clerk, shot and killed his fellow employee, Joseph Devine, in the general storehouse department of the League Island Navy Yard.

The United States Steel Corporation will start work this spring on a series of by-product coke ovens to cost $15,000,000.

LT.-CMDR. HART TAKES COMMAND OF K SEA-WASPS

"I'm pleased to tell you about my work, but mention me as little as possible," says Lieut.-Comdr. Thomas C. Hart, the new commander of the third submarine division. He sat at his desk in the division commander's office on board the Alert yesterday, and said he was getting acquainted with the division and its activities. He took command Wednesday.

"I have been executive officer on the U. S. battleship Minnesota of the Atlantic fleet for the last year and a half," says the division commander.

"My family is here and we are occupying Judge H. M. Ballou's house."

Lieut.-Comdr. Hart came on the Northern Pacific Tuesday, direct from the east and San Pedro. He said what impressed him most in Los Angeles was the tremendous number of automobiles everywhere.

The new commander is an expert on torpedoes, although he has not had a large experience with submarines. He is a graduate of Annapolis, class of 1897, and while there was a roommate of Lieut.-Comdr. D. F. Boyd, former executive officer of the Maryland and now commander of the U. S. submarine tender Bushnell.

COMES THIS WAY TO MISS GREAT CIRCLE GALES

Laden with munitions, steel rails, locomotives and motor trucks for the Russian government, the American steam schooner St. Helens, Capt. McClements, came into port at 8 o'clock this morning from Tacoma to take 2000 barrels of fuel oil at the railroad wharf before resuming her voyage to Vladivostok this afternoon.

Talking with President J. A. Kennedy of the Inter-Island, Capt. McClements said he could make better time with so heavily-laden a ship by going to Vladivostok via Honolulu than by following the Great Circle route, which is storm-whipped this time of the year. The steamer lies very low in the water.

The St. Helens is a small vessel, of 1267 gross tons. She was built in 1907 and is owned by the E. G. Dodge Company. Her home port is San Francisco. Capt. William R. Foster, harbormaster, says she made several trips to this port bringing lumber for the army.

WILL GIVE LECTURES ON COMMERCIAL LAW
